

Challenge Yourself: Time to Write

“One month Turkish writing programme”

Theme: Translation!

31st July 2025 – 5th September 2025

In our previous writing programmes we crafted stories, but this time we're enhancing our writing skills through translation practice!

In this programme, participants will tackle a new translation task every week, ranging in styles such as novels, news articles, recipes, and stories. Participants will translate from English to Turkish.

The programme welcomes all levels of proficiency, ensuring each participant receives a task tailored to their level.

Each Sunday marks the deadline for submissions and the unveiling of the next task. On Mondays, participants will receive corrections for their previous work, crucial for identifying and learning from mistakes before diving into the new task.

Throughout the programme, there will be three meetings:

1. The introductory meeting: Here, the teacher will outline the programme's structure and address any questions from participants.
2. The Q&A session: Participants can bring specific questions regarding their translations or general enquiries, all of which the teacher will address.
3. The final evaluation: This meeting will involve a comprehensive assessment of participants' progress. The teacher will discuss common mistakes made during the programme and offer strategies to avoid them. Participants are encouraged to ask questions about their texts, whether general or specific.

Additionally, students can ask questions about grammar, vocabulary, or any other aspect of the language via WhatsApp or email on weekdays.
